

NEW NOVELS

THREE FEVERS

Mr. Leo Walmsley's THREE FEVERS (Cape, 7s. 6d. net) is the story of a fishing village on the Yorkshire coast...

The human characters are strongly marked. Isaac Fosdyck, the ironic old croaker; Luke and Tindal and Avery his nephews...

THE BLACK BOXER

Mr. H. E. Bates is essentially a lyrical writer. In an earlier century he might have been a lyric poet...

Take such tales as "A Love Story" and "Death in Spring" and "A Flower Piece" and "A Threshing Day"...

A similar effect appears in "Death in Spring" and "A Flower Piece" and "A Threshing Day" and "The Hessian Prisoner"...

symbol so familiar as to need for new effectiveness a greater degree of revitalization than it here receives.

GOD IN THE STRAW PEN

Isiah Lowe and John Semple are revivalists, the time is 1850, the place the uplands of Georgia...

We are shown the poor, oppressed men and women preparing for the immense excitement of the meeting to which, sick or well, dead or by gain, they are all determined to go...

AMOK

Herr Stefan Zwigg's AMOK (translated by Eden and Colver Paul, Cassell, 6s. net) is a long short-story of unadorned dramatic force...

He is a doctor returning from a Dutch colonial settlement in the midst of swamp and jungle after eight years' service...

THE MANOR HOUSE

The love of the land, pure, impersonal, a thought feudal, is the theme of Miss Nettie Syrett's new novel, THE MANOR HOUSE (Bles, 7s. 6d. net)...

At the manor house a son is born after hope of an heir has long been given up and the three daughters are big girls...